Dr. Nordness Joins Grandview Surgical Staff

Hospital now provides 24/7 surgical services to community

JASPER, TN –Grandview Medical Center recently welcomed its newest General Surgeon, Dr. Paul J. Nordness, to the medical staff.

Prior to his arrival at Grandview, Dr. Nordness most recently practiced medicine at Village Surgical Associates in Fayetteville, North Carolina. He also served as co-director of Cape Fear Medical Center Trauma Service beginning in 2005.

A native son of Birmingham, Ala., Dr. Nordness earned his medical degree from the Vanderbilt University School of Medicine prior to completing his residency at Carolinas Medical Center in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Board certified in general surgery, Dr. Nordness said he is excited to bring his surgical skills to Grandview and the residents of the Sequatchie Valley.

"I'm looking forward to serving the welcoming people of this area," Dr. Nordness said. "I enjoy working in smaller hospitals because I like the fact that better relationships can be built with local referring physicians and members of the community. Grandview is moving forward in many positive ways and I'm glad to contribute and become a part of that momentum."

Dr. Nordness' arrival to Grandview means that the hospital now has general surgery coverage 24 hours a day, seven days a week, said CEO Bruce Baldwin.

"We're excited to welcome Dr. Nordness to our Grandview surgical staff," Baldwin said. "The fact that the hospital's surgeons provide surgical coverage 24 hours every day means a lot to patients who need the services in a timely manner. This is an ongoing effort to continually evaluate the people, the services and the technology we offer with those needed by our communities."

Dr. Nordness and his wife Francesca have two children, ages seven and three. He said he enjoys golfing, bicycling, and other outdoor activities in any spare time he has after raising his family and his work.

Dr. Nordness said he looks forward to helping the hospital expand its scope of services further in the future. His office is now open and is accepting patients by physician referral. He may be reached at 423-837-9531.
